PAYNE'S RESIGNATION FINALLY ACCEPTED

Ne Excuses Made for Shortage. Board Acts-Hibbets Successor to Payne.

In a scene bordering on pathos, the resignation of J. Mitt Payne, city treasurer, was accepted Tuesday afternoon by the city commissioners as the outcome of the recent expose in the report of C. S. Peterson, who has just completed the audit of the city accounts. This report was made a week ago. It stated that Payne had collected some $400 in taxes for which he had not accounted. During this week Payne had made no explanation of the deficit. Explanation was made before the commission that he was not present at this meeting on account of sickness in his family,

A suggestion was made that Payne make an explanation. Then Mayor Litfleton stated that he still had Mr. Payne's resignation in his office, where it had been for months, and that he was going to accept it. There was a "I am going to ask you to approve my action," said the mayor to the beard. By a vote the commission accepted the absent man's resignation. Notwithstanding the $400, the feeling seemed to be that Payne was hopelessly careless and easy going in his office and accounts, and there was developed little suspicion of actual fraud. All that threw Mitt Payne's accounts out of balance was tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow. After the resignation had been accepted, Mayor Littleton appointed in his place John Hibbetts. Commissioner Betterton interposed a plea for de-lay on this appointment. Betterton stated that while he knew that Hibbetts was careful in his accounts, and that in his work as deputy city auditor he had kept his books in splendid condition, still he thought action should be delayed and considered. It was not, however, and the new appointment was approved.

THE LUNGE FOR PARIS

This map, with the territory gained by the Germans since the beginning of their drive to the Marne shaded, shows how the crown prince has altered the course of his offensive from the southward to the westward and is attacking along the line shown by the arrows.

From Lassigny to Chateau Thierry he has been delivering violent attacks against the French to unite the Aisne and Picardy fronts and march on Paris. No attempt has been made by the Germans to cross the Marne, but if they can follow its course as far as Meaux, forcing the French back as far as Complegne, "the gate to Paris," they will be in excellent position for an attack on the capital and a simultaneous drive past Amiens to the channel. That Gen. Foch foresaw the German strategy is proved by the fact that he conserved his men while the Germans were advancing to the Marne, but as soon as the westward drive toward Paris was begun, he threw his reserves into the battle and has succeeded in stemming the onrush of the Huns. While in the first few days of the battle the Germans gained from ten to fifteen miles a day, the French are now

All members of his family, except Maj. Richard Fairbanks, who is in France, were at his bedside. The distinction of birth in a cabin, which illustrious Americans of an earlier day commonly had, was also that of former Vice-President Fairbanks. It is probable that he was the last of American statesmen to have been born in one of these humble cabins. He was born May 11, 1852. Fairbanks, at 15, entered Ohio Wes-leyan college at Delaware, O., sharing an attic room with the son of another farmer, and the two cooked their own meals. GIST OF WAR SITUATION AS GIVEN BY THE TWO NEWS SERVICES

LEAD ALL GIST OF WAR (Associated Press.) German masses no longer hurl them-selves at the allied lines along extended fronts. The momentum of the Teu-ton advance of last week appears to have exhausted itself in striking the yielding lines of the French and British, which now have stiffened and are holding the foe except for insignificant gains here and there, especially along the front running south from the neighborhood of Soissons to Chateau Thierry. The struggle apparently is changing from a war of movement to a war of position.

Official reports show that the Germans are launching their assaults on Chezy, Courcy and near Dommieres, isolated points of vantage. These attacks were, roughly, from five to sever miles apart along the line, which in-cludes ground where the Americans have established themselves and have fought the Germans to a standstill. The French official statement says the Teuton attacks were all repulsed.

The reports of operations along the British front fails to show any notable activity on the part of the Germans. At Morlancourt, between the Ancre and the Somme, south of Albert, the Germans, supported by heavy artil-lery fire, attempted to raid the British positions, but were repulsed, leav-ing prisoners behind.

Details of the fighting in which American units have taken part show that Gen. Pershing's men have gone into battle with a spirit which is magnificent.
